Hi, and good evening everyone from the ministry of Nick Vujicic Life Without Limbs. Thank you so much for tuning in—sorry if my hands get in the way of the signal here!

I want to tell you I love you, and I'm so excited about talking about self-love, knowing that true love gives. Before we get into that, I just want to say thank you for tuning in. We're going to be doing this monthly, and if this encourages you, please make sure that you send this onward when we upload this for other people to watch as well. We want to let you know that God loves you and He has a plan for you, and I just want you to know that you know as human beings, we use that term love a lot. Right? And like, "I love this, I love that, but I really love my wife I love my kids, I love God, and God loves me!"

Like, you know this salad is awesome. I'm like in the restaurant thinking, "No! God is awesome, right? Not your salad!" and so like when we use these words, you know, we must understand though what is closest to God's heart is His love for you. God, whose thoughts and ways are way higher than ours.

He's the Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. He created everything that we saw, everything that we don't see, right? And He still cares for us. That's right. He even sent His Son Jesus Christ to die for us, and that big love is understanding that we are loved because of who God is, and how He sees us as His children, and even though I can love my kids, sometimes they don't feel like loving themselves, or even us as adults, right?

Like when we mess up, we don't really love ourselves as much, or we look at the media, and you see these perfect people, and success, and this and that, and you're like, "Oh, I'm single! I need to be loved. I don't think I'm ever going to marry anyone, right? And we don't really love ourselves. We judge ourselves. We're actually not even our best friend. We're our worst enemies, sometimes of just letting those negative thoughts not be captured and replaced with truth.

But these little negative thoughts that lies and fear spreads into our heart. Thinking about, "Man, well who am I, if I don't do that, then really what's my value? If no one really cares for me, maybe that's just a perception, then maybe I'm unlovable.

And I want you to know with especially in 2021 where depression, isolation, addiction, and even thoughts of suicide have really doubled, in from what I'm hearing anyway. I just want you to know that, first of all, I love you. They call me the "hugging machine" right? I've hugged so many people my arms have fallen off! And I want you to know that I do love you, and I don't know who you are. I don't know your name, don't know where you're watching from.

I'm actually hearing that we got people from India, Canada, US, watching and even England right now, and it doesn't matter where you're from, and what you look like, or anything, and how you're different than anybody else. You're uniquely made! There's not another you, and God loves you, and so do I. Why? Because there is no one that I can lay my eyes on that God doesn't love. Jesus died for the world. and if I believe that He did die for me, I then have the accepting love of Jesus Christ no matter how I look because He died for me before I was born, right? He knew my name before the earth began, and that's the incredible, insurmountable love that He has for us.

And so how do we know, how do we love ourselves? How do we do that in a righteous way? What does it even mean to have self-love because you see so many people out there saying, “You know, you need to do this, you need to do that, and you know you need to love yourself.”

And but you know some people might say, “But you need to do this, and this and this before we really accept you, right? But what does the Bible say about first of all loving yourself?”

Galatians 5:14 says, “Love your neighbor as you love yourself.” This verse is telling us that the key to loving yourself is treating others the way you would want to be treated. In other words, true love gives. I’ve actually met people who love others more than they love themselves.

What we must understand is not everyone has actually experienced love. Not everyone knows how it feels to be in someone’s loving arms. Maybe they didn’t have a loving home. Maybe I’m talking to you, and I want you to first of all understand that loving yourself is not about having this ideology or the perfect life or the perfect image or body or the perfect friends, right?

I want you to know that the key is really to love those around you when you can see them as God sees them because that’s how God sees you.

When we get our eyes off of ourselves and focus on others, not our own problems, not our own challenges and what we think we need to do next, it’s just accepting the love of God in how we are. He says, “Come as you are,” and when we find that love of God, we realize we don’t have to be depressed and those thoughts of feeling like, “Oh, my goodness, I can’t do this on my own!”

That truth then helps you understand, “God, I need you in every area of my life. Help me to know your love that I may also be able to see not just how I look on the outside and judge myself by what I’ve done, but because I’m your child.”

And then also then to see that that unconditional love as we pursue God in our personal relationship. It’s one other thing to first of all love God, but then love your neighbor as yourself. It’s because other people maybe haven’t found that love of God and when you have found that love of God, you not only accept the good and the bad and the ups and downs of life knowing that God will carry you when you cannot even walk, but then it’s that amazing opportunity for you to reach out to someone else and love them as if you’re giving them what you would give to yourself, if you will, loving yourself.

And I want you to know that, as you know, I was born without arms and legs, and when I was young, I didn’t like the way that God made me.

I didn’t love myself I couldn’t see a future for myself. I wondered if I’d ever have friends who really accepted me. I never thought that any cute girls would ever want to date me, let alone marry me, but I learned something.

When I got my eyes off myself and put my focus on others, my own limitations and my apparent ugliness began to fade. I know those are strong words, but I feel like we all go through those insecurities, and I want you to know that those insecurities, I think, we all go through that, and I’ll never forget when I first spoke in front of a small crowd of people, I was scared.

My palms were sweating, my knees were shaking, you know. What would they think of me, right? And then all of a sudden, while I'm speaking, I'm like, don't even know what I'm really talking about. I'm just being real, right?—and authentic—and just letting people know that I love them.

All of a sudden there was a girl that just started crying, and the whole room started moving, and there were like people whispering and hugging each other while I was talking, and all of a sudden a girl put up her hand. She's just uncontrollably crying. She said, "I'm so sorry. Can I come up there and give you a hug?"

And in front of everyone she came and she hugged me, and she whispered in my ear, "Thank you, thank you, thank you! No one's ever told me that they love me. No one's ever told me that I'm beautiful the way that I am!"

And that's when I knew that I needed to start living my life looking at what God did give me, not what he didn't give me. Then I began to use the little I had to help others: acceptance, friends, self-worth, and self-loved. therein self-love, therein followed.

Look, we know that in the Bible it says, "It's better to give than to receive," and I want you to know that for me there is this instigated purpose in all of our life that sometimes it takes time to seek God, and it's a pursuit after Him to say, "God, if You really are there, if You really have a plan for me, if You really have a purpose for me, please reveal Yourself to me."

And guess what? The Bible also says that when you seek Him, You will find Him."

So, my friend, I want you to know that there is an unconditional source of love for you out there, and it's from God first and Jesus when you read this and you pursue this love of Jesus, you actually see that Jesus in Matthew 22 even had a greater concept, where He tells us three things: We are to love God, love others, and love yourself.

And He said that in that order, too, and so to understand that when you find the love of God and you're almost like rescued from this prison and you were captive from fear, anxiety, feeling like a failure, fear of rejection, being rejected, maybe even your failures where you feel like you're in a prison of shame.

Right now, you're in a prison of feeling like you're condemned by God. No, we know that those who are in Christ Jesus are not in condemnation. God loves you. and His love pursues you even if you're running a million miles an hour in the wrong direction of God's perfect plan. Guess what? God can run faster than you, my friend, and there is no sin that He cannot forgive, no chain that He cannot break, no depression that He cannot lift off, and I want you to know that that you can pray, and know that God is listening to you.

Keep on seeking him, friend, and you will find Him. Love God, and in loving God, it helps me to love others and help them turn to that love of God that rescued me. I want you to know that when you feel desperate, you go into despair and thoughts of suicide. It's almost like you feel like there is nothing good left in you—thoughts of giving up. It just feels like there is no strength left in you.

When I was young, I had those thoughts. I thought I was just a burden to my parents. I thought I would never have friends. I thought I was the alien. I began to consider suicide, but God's love swallowed up my feelings of self-hatred, of self-condemnation, of self-isolation, of me writing my own hope off. But man, thank God I was wrong! He always has a plan. That's what God says. That's when you know what's in your head.

Is it lined up with the Bible or not? Because His Word, the Bible, told me that I am fearfully and wonderfully made just the way that I am. His Word told me that He had a plan for me, “plans to prosper me and not to harm me.” His Word told me that “I could do all things through Christ who strengthens me.”

Knowing and loving God gave me strength and the boldness to love others. Loving others gave me the self-worth, instigating purposefulness, and me being an instrument in His hand as a child of God to go and rescue my brother or my sister which actually was the one thing that I longed for! Fulfillment, loving myself, made me a usable vessel in God's hand because God gave me every chance, but it was me giving God a chance to allow me to know and understand His great love for me and everyone around me, including my enemies, that's right! Loving others, praying for my enemies, that doesn't mean that I have to be friends with my enemies, but praying that God would lift off the scales of their eyes, that God would bind their evil deeds against me, but I would still pray for their soul, not immediately after they harmed me.

Sometimes it took me 10 years to forgive some people, and I'm the evangelist! It's when you know I'm just like you. We all have ups and downs. We all have doubts. We all go through different seasons of our life, but who knew that God would use a man without arms and legs to be his hands and feet!

And I want you to know that if it's maybe you today finding it hard to love yourself, I want to pray with you right now. I want to pray that God Himself will reveal His love to you that when He looks at you, He just looks at your eyes. When I look at my child as his father, I don't remember the bad stuff he's done. When my three-year-old boys, you know when they were three, you know when they stumbled or there were two trying to learn how to walk and they fell, they don't get beaten up by mom and dad. “Oh, you fell down. No, they're learning how to walk. You're learning how to walk in the love of God, and I want to pray that you can learn to live a life of giving to and loving others so that you really understand that when you even love someone, or serve someone, or go into a ministry or non-profit in a way to show love, it's that instigation of your unselfishly giving to someone, not to give to receive but just to give, and God then reveals that love in how he built you, in knowing that you're giving and serving others and loving others not because they deserve and not because you want to get something back, but that's the unconditional love.

I'm here to serve, and if Jesus came not to be served but to serve, who are we to think that we are here just to be served to exist to coexist and feel good and happy. No, we are here to be first self-loved in a God fashion, in His nature because He created us, He adopted us in His family, and because of that joy of being adopted in His home, and I'm a son, and you're a son and daughter to the King of kings!

Man, this is just the beginning! I want you to know that God wants to draw you closer to Him and He's got a lot for you in store, so first of all, if you already know who God is but you are struggling right now with, they would call it in the world “self-esteem,” but we call it here tonight self-love, the way that we are to look after ourselves to understand that we are not just somebody with this, that according to the world. No, you are a child of God. You're an ambassador the King of kings and Lord of lords! You are anointed! You're appointed, and God loves you no matter what!

I want to pray for you right now. Okay, let's pray. Dear God, we thank you so much for those who are watching right now, who do know about you, who do know that God is love, who do know that that you love them, that you did create them, but Lord, right now they're going through a chapter or season in their life where they just don't like themselves.

God, whatever judgment has been happening or affliction or oppression or depression, we ask in Jesus name that every power, principality of darkness, would be gone in Jesus name. Father, we ask that whoever is hurting us or afflicting us, Lord God, help us to find counseling. Help us to reach out to a friend. Help us to email someone online tonight, Lord God, and get some resources that can help us to know that we're not alone, and that Your love for us never changes.

And help us, Lord God, to use that power of your love to let other people know that you love them too. Father, we thank you for miracles tonight. We pray for that, Lord. You know our desires. You know our needs. We thank You that You'll always supply what we need, but Lord, we also uplift any desires, Lord God. We thank You that we're vertical, we're upright. We are breathing on our own, and every day that passes is a day closer to coming to eternal joy in seeing you face-to-face in heaven.

Thank you, Lord, that we do not have to be afraid of what people think. We don't have to achieve or just fit into the world to feel love, but love ourselves because of your love for us and love others as we have received Your love so undeservingly. Thank You, God, that You encourage us and help us to seek You in everything we do. Help us to know Your plan. In Jesus' name, Amen.

And those friends who are now still watching and maybe you don't know who God is, I want to ask you, "Do you know Jesus? Do you know Me? Do you know Him as a just a person a human being, just as a good teacher, or some may call Him a prophet? Who do you say Jesus is you?"

No, I mean you can go to church every Sunday and you know youth group every Wednesday night or whatever but still not know Jesus. You can go to church, you know, twice a year—Christmas, Easter—and do some traditions, but that doesn't mean that you have a relationship with Him. You see Jesus wants a friendship, a relationship with you, and Jesus demonstrated that ultimate love when He died on the cross in place of us for our sins. He paid the price of every sin and shameful thing we've ever done, and I just want to quote one more verse.

John 15:13, "Greater love has no one than this than to lay one's life down for one's friends," and that is exactly what Jesus did for you. He didn't ask him to do it. He did it anyway, and there's reasons and people think, "Well, I didn't understand. I don't understand how a loving God could send His Son to die on the cross for me. I didn't ask anyone to sacrifice His Son."

No, we were fallen. We had sin when man fell and Jesus died once and for all that then God would be reunited with all his millions or billions of children who believed that the price for their sin also was paid. I want to ask you. "Are you done living for yourself and trying to live up to expectations of the world. Are you quite done yet trying to figure out your way of finding happiness? And the more you try to be good, the more you realize that you really have a lot of sin, I want you to know that God wants to fill you with His love and guide you every day.

If you want to invite Jesus into your heart right now and to seek Him, to know His love, to know He has a plan for you, would you just say this prayer with me? Say, "Dear God, I come to You today, and I thank you for loving me. Thank you Jesus for dying on the cross for my sins. I believe you are the son of God and you rose again forgive me of everything I've done wrong I am a sinner, and I need you. Please help me come into my life and fill me right now with your Holy Spirit. I want to know You. I want to know Your strength. Please be my strength. Help me to know what Your peace feels like and Your joy. Thank you, Lord. Help me. Teach me to pray. Show me how to live one day at a time. In Jesus' name I pray, Amen."

Friend, if you just prayed that prayer with me, I want to offer you some next steps that can really help you. [Thunder and lightning sound. Video with music shows thunder and lightning in the clouds, TV announcing warning, listener watching.]

[NICK] The storms of life are inevitable.

Trials and tribulations come when you don't expect them.

My friend, we're not promised a perfect journey.

The wind will blow.

The rain will fall, and the waters will rise.

How will YOU withstand the storm?

What is your life built on?

You're not a mistake. You're here for a reason, and you don't have to walk through this walk alone, and I ain't here or not just to exist and just to enjoy and just to co-exist. I am here to let people know that no matter what the world can give you, all other ground is sinking sand because it just ain't enough. Your intellect ain't enough. Your intellect will fail you if Jesus ain't your cure. If Jesus ain't your rock, if Jesus ain't the Lord of your life, you'll understand.

[ANNOUNCER] Thank you for joining us this evening. if you would like to make a donation you can visit lifewithoutlimbs.org/give. For more information on our ministry visit lifewithoutlimbs.org. Now join us for a live Q&A with Nick Vujicic.

[NICK] Hi everyone, I'm so excited to do this really cool live interaction right now with you. I've got an iPad in front of me. I've got the first four questions .and I'm going to choose the order of them if that's cool, real quick.

Thank you for sending in your questions. This is so exciting! Remember, we're doing this monthly, so if you are encouraged tonight, and you want to make sure that your friends maybe tune in next month, please let them know. It's going to be another awesome, engaging time together.

[Question 1]

And I just want to say thank you to Katie for your question. "Nick how are you and your family doing in Texas? I've been praying for you, brother."

Katie, I just want to say thank you so much. We've defrosted. I can finally feel my hands again! (My team thought that was funny, too.) I just want you to know that we're doing great. We're doing really, really good. We were hanging to get outside in the sun today to, you know, really enjoy the sun. We are looking forward to, as a family, going fishing in about 10 or 14 days, and go out there and do almost like a family trip within Texas, and we're so excited, you know to be in this state. We know that this is where God wants us to be, and we knew that in November 2019, and so please pray for us in our ministry as we also relocate Life Without Limbs headquarters out of California to Texas, and thank you for your prayers for that transition.

And thank you to all of you who are praying for us, our staff, our board, our future staff, in this transition. There's a lot. a lot of is happening right now but we are so thrilled. We know where, exactly where, God wants us to be in the timing of all these things. We know that God's in it all, so thank you for your prayers for me and my family. Me and my wife, we just celebrated our ninth anniversary so exciting. You know the kids are getting taller. I'm actually the shortest one at home right now. Can you believe that? Like I'm looking up at everyone. Like my goodness what's going on? So, thank you for your love and your prayers. Thanks for asking how we're doing. We're doing awesome.

[Question 2]

Samuel, "How do I know God's plan for my life?"

Thank you, Samuel, for your question. That is like the question of questions, right? So, first of all, when you talk about the plan, let's talk about—let's change that word desire, right? What's God's greatest desire for you? To know Him, to love Him, to love others, exactly fitting in with what we're talking about tonight. If you're wondering like how to serve others, black and white written in the Bible, remember the orphans, remember the widows, and go clothe the naked, and feed the hungry. Pretty simply: put, go, and be Jesus. Be the hands and feet. Call someone tonight. See how they're doing. You don't know if they also have maybe thoughts of suicide or depression or feeling like they're so alone. You want to know the greatest way in someone not feeling alone? Someone reaching out to them, right, and some of us are like (you remember how I was talking about tonight, right?) when we take our focus off ourselves, when we focus on someone else, right? It's understanding how beautiful it is that you don't need a miracle to be one. Remember that, right? This is so cool, and so now God's overall plan for you.

<https://youtu.be/85SRYmGV9rY> 38:43

February 23, 2021

Obviously, there's a lot of verticals within this question, but the way that God's gifted you, talented, giving you talent—whatever it is—some of us have a nine-to-five job that don't really do anything that quote-unquote is directly related to God's mission or a non-profit organization. Very few of us are actually employed by a God-given mission, right? But what we understand is, it's not about where you're employed; it's or who's employing you! It's where you're at to be the light of God, as well and so make sure that you understand that your plan for God's desire and plan for you is to share the Gospel at your workplace, and the greatest way to do that is to ask your work colleague, “Hey, let's go out, you know, and tell me your story?” And when they're finished telling you their story, guess what? They ask you later, “What's your story?”

And then you can share about how Jesus has changed your life, right? Your history is His story. Use the powerful testimony God has given you. Yes, to then let them know that God loves them too, but you know, ask God, seek Him. have people pray for you. If it's something specific, if it's ministries, whatever just keep on seeking God. Follow your peace. That's the greatest advice I've ever been given by a wonderful friend of mine for 11 years, my mentor, John Phelps, one of my mentors who said, “Just follow your peace, and I'm just glad. It's like the greatest advice anyone could give me, so glad. So thank you, Samuel. Hope that helps you keep on. Seek and you'll find it, and don't make a rocket science of it, right? Go back to the basics that I told you as well.

[Question 3]

Wendy. thank you for your question. “What are some ways you practice self-love?”

What a fantastic question! And so I feel like there are times when you don't really feel that you've even accepted or are okay with who you are. Sometimes, I read some verses over my life. Sometimes, when you feel a little bit depressed or anxious or fearful, you know, read Psalm 139. Read Psalm 91. Reading the Word helps your spirit to hear the Word of God, and that's where you get faith, right? Faith comes by—it's a gift. You can't muster it up, can't earn it, can't achieve it. It's a gift that seriously only comes—is what the Bible says—when you hear the Word of God. So, like why wait till Sunday to pick up your Bible or tune into something, right? That's why we read the word daily in Psalm 139, Psalm 91.

Love that Philippians 4:13, “I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me.” That's another one, “And there is no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus.” And so, when you feel like there's shame or guilt or fear in your life, and you feel like you need a breakthrough of those emotions. First of all, be okay to feel the way that you feel sometimes. We are human beings, not human doing so human beings have feelings, and it's okay, like God knows what you're feeling, okay?

But He's there to comfort you. He's there to—like you know—be there for you, but eventually just break those lies with the truth, baby. Who cares about how you look? Who cares about how many friends you have? Who cares about what money you make? He's got another. You're the child of the King of kings and Lord of lords, and your Daddy owns everything! Man, you're like the richest kid on earth because your Daddy owns everything!

So it's not about money and what you can have, what you can't have. It's understanding who you are and whose you are. Now there are people that might actually watch this in very poor countries. I just want you know: Keep on trusting in God. God's grace is sufficient. and may God bless your financial need or give you that food right now. I don't know what's going on. I know that 2020 is being crazy all over the world. and I'm hearing some things that will never be on the news. and I'm very sorry to hear of the suffering in the world. and that's another way that you can also you know.

Give out and make sure that it's not just in your community or national but international, but for anyone who wants to practice a healthy self-love, it's, I think, what I love is reflecting on what Kanae's done for me. I don't think it's like me mastering up self-love. I think it's just really coming to the rawness of writing down the miracles. If you just wrote down the goodness of God, if you just wrote down the things that you can be thankful for real,

Write it down. I think that's the greatest way where you also give glory obviously to God, but I can't love me when I know my own weaknesses, my own failures, and all that stuff, but I can. I can really magnify the love of God in my life when I realize, "Oh, my gosh, look! Look at what He's done for me and who am I, right? So, I think that's great. Write down the blessings of life and the miracles I journal. I think that's a wonderful way to do that.

[Question 4]

From Joni Cast, one on this iPad, "What was your first book?"

My first book written was Life Without Limits. It came out in 2010, and it sold 1.4 million books around the world in 39 languages, I think, and we're so excited we've done now six books. One of them talks about love. Okay, one of my dearest friends—I'm not going to say who it is and the connection to that person—but she called me crying after she was engaged to be married to the person who she is now married to, just crying on the phone with me or teary-eyed holding back more tears. I know you were crying, just saying, "Thank you, Nick, for writing that book Love Without Limits with your wife because it helped me to know how to have self-love and actually give myself a chance to believe that true love was still out there for me." I doubt if I'm in my 30s and I she's telling me on the phone, and you don't know this, Nick, but that book changed my life, and so if you want to learn more about self-love or if you're single or if you're divorced or people have hurt you, and you want to read a book that instigates this new newness of the joy of believing in love and God's love for you and loving each other and the love story of me and my wife, oh, my goodness check it out. Go to lifewithoutlimbs.org and audio copy there Love Without Limits as well.

[Question 5]

Justin, "What are you excited for this year?"

Oh, my gosh! I'm so excited! I'm at home, baby! We're going fishing next week with my children. I get to speak to thousands of people through this. This is amazing. It's not like Nick's not going to be traveling in the future. We actually have some really exciting plans across America, and when things whatever around the world will, you know, go where God wants us to go, but we're really going digitally, and I'm most excited about the fact that we've been praying that this little guy with no arms our legs has been on 2500 plane rides, 3 million miles around the world, 3500 stages, 9.5 million people have heard the gospel of Jesus Christ through the minister of Life Without Limbs because of your support, because of your prayers.

Now, to be reaching millions without me having to travel the world and actually see my children grow up and not miss their childhood. I'm so humbled to have met Billy Graham with my wife while we were engaged, and he had two regrets. He didn't read his Bible enough. Okay, Billy Graham says that. And then, "I wish I had spent more time with my family," and I really get both of them, and it's so humbling to hear that from him and that's the beauty in it. I've actually—I feel like I'm 19 again. You've never heard me say that ever.

This is a brand new chapter for Life Without Limbs, and we need your prayer because there are territories that we're now taking that it's just unbelievable. We're building a Prayer Army, and we'd love to share with you our prayer request as a ministry as well, and I think I'm most excited because we're going to get 400 people this year praying for us on a daily basis, and if you want to be one of those 400 people who get those prayer requests from us to you, go to lifewithoutlimbs.org to find more information. Make sure, if you haven't signed up to the newsletter, please do so. Monthly you get the activities of ministry of Life Without Limbs, how Prison Ministry is going bonkers, like amazing, and people are getting saved, and then going through discipleship course, a "Free in My Faith" course, and then those people who did the six-week discipleship course, then in turn within the facilities of prisons, start their own ministry of seeing other people come to Jesus Christ, and then being discipled.

So, thank you to the team of Life Without Limbs. Thank you to the Board of Life Without Limbs. Thank you to all of you who love us as a ministry. We love you. God bless you. We are praying for our country. We're praying for each and every one of you. We're praying for our world, and we just want you know we love you.

Thank you for loving on us. Thank you for joining us tonight. We're very, very excited about the future, and maybe we can expand more on that in our next video, that we can share with you some reports of who came to Jesus and maybe a testimony that you can just see the context of knowing that together in the family of Life Without Limbs in the Jesus Army of Life Without Limbs, seeing one soul at a time be set free by the amazing love of God. God bless you. Thank you for watching and have a wonderful, wonderful evening, morning, whatever it is.
